Family Is Found Near Starvation In Vacant House

In a bleak, barren room, bare of everything except a few soiled newspapers scattered around on the floor, a young baby, a two-year-old child, three women and two men were discovered Friday afternoon by Patrolman K. A. Wooster in a vacant house at 240 Trinity street.

Apparently suffering from near starvation aggravated by probable malarial fever, the pitiful little band of deservants were too weak even to talk. Whispered advice from the older man told Patrolman Wooster a sad tale of how the group had come to Hawkinsville, Ga., where they had conducted in fruitless search for work, and had finally been furnished with return transportation by a grand jury in that town. The matter to the Salvation Army, who, under the Chest arrangement, he explained, handled transient cases. City doctors were ordered to diagnose the people for possible malarial fever, suspected by police.

The Name Selected for the Wonderful Ham by the Judges

Here Is the First Prize Letter:

First Prize, $150

"Nutfield"

Submitted by Mrs. R. H. Gower 510 Moreland Ave., N. E. Atlanta, Ga.

Second Prize, $75

"Kernel"

Submitted by J. F. Harbour 367 Moreland Ave., N. E. Atlanta, Ga.

Third Prize, $25

"Goobar-Nut"

Submitted by W. H. Barnes 890 Cascade Ave. Atlanta, Ga.

Practically a thousand answers were received. A complete list of names suggested (with the reasons therefor) were compiled and submitted to the judges. After the judges had selected the three names which appealed to them most, the letters were then produced and the winners' names made known to the judges.

Rogers, Inc., and the White Provision Co. wish to thank the large number of interested friends, both in and out of Atlanta, who sent in suggestions, and only regret that all could not secure a prize.

You can now buy these wonderful hams at Rogers or Nifty Jiffy markets—these Georgia hams, from Georgia hogs, fed and fattened on peanuts, and cured in a modern way by the White Provision Co.—which we have named "Nutfield" Hams.

"Now that the primary is over,"

Mr. Nalley declared, "I ask all of my friends and supporters to join me in setting our faces to the goal of national democracy—the election of Smith and Robinson. Help these two great leaders to carry the banner of victory in November. We all should start our one-way march, forward and at once."

220 Members Are Added To Chamber of Commerce During Three-Day Drive

President Dargan Pleased With Success of Undertaking; Additional Members Expected.

A total of 220 new members was added to the rolls of the Atlanta chamber of commerce during a three-day drive which was terminated Friday night at a dinner given for campaign workers in the chamber's headquarters.

Though a goal of 250 additional members had been set by the campaign workers, Milton Dargan, Jr., chamber president, was confident that this total would be passed when he believed membership subscriptions were reported.

Elect Additional Members. "A great number of prospects interviewed during the drive doubtless will join our organization later," Mr. Dargan said. "Although officially we are short 30 of the goal set I have no doubt but that these will be reported later. At any rate we are exceedingly well pleased with the results of the drive."

Five divisions were in the field seeking memberships during the three days. Four of these were in competition for prizes while the fifth, a special division centered its efforts on big business concerns which already held memberships with a view to having them add to their holdings.

In the competitive group, the division commanded by C. L. Graves finished first with a total of 34 new memberships obtained during the three days. Mr. Graves' division was awarded a silver cup. The division commanded by Mark Pope finished second with 32 memberships. Others finished in this order:

Paul Franke's division, 29; Sam Rothberg's division, 27; and Walter Withington's division, 25.

Smith Wins Pitcher. The first prize for individual success went to Hal Smith, who won a silver pitcher. Mr. Smith obtained 13 new members during the three days. The team prize went to that captained by H. W. Gullatt of the Graves division.

All memberships not credited to any competitive division were reported by the special campaign committee which was headed by Horace Russell.

The entire campaign was under the direction of Roy LeCraw, whose successful efforts were warmly praised in an address by Mr. Dargan.

The time and effort given by Mr. LeCraw in this effort to increase the membership of the chamber of commerce and boost Atlanta business generally is one of the most noble I have ever seen in my business career," Mr. Dargan said.

W. W. GAINES HEADS BOARD OF REGISTRARS

W. W. Gaines was elected chairman of the board of registrars of Fulton county Friday to succeed the late Colonel W. M. Scott, who was killed in a railroad accident several days ago. Colonel Scott had been a member of the board since it was constituted 40 years ago, and had been chairman for 20 years.

Other members of the board are P. W. Derrick, who also is sheriff of the county of appeals and S. C. Gibbs, attorney.

The board now is engaged in purging the voting lists of the county for use in the national and state elections. The names of voters who failed to pay their taxes in time, or who have died within the past two years, are being stricken from the lists and duplication caused by removal of voters from one ward to another and reregistration is being eliminated.

Mr. Gaines has been a member of the board for 15 years, and is well-known as an attorney, churchman and member of the board of education of Atlanta. J. C. Harrison is secretary and Miss Dora Humphries is stenographer for the board of registrars.

Clear Weather Promised City For Today

Typical Georgia autumn weather, bright, moderate, with a slight edge to it, will prevail here today, it was predicted Friday afternoon by C. F. von Herrmann, government meteorologist.

The extremes of 62 and 84 degrees here Friday will be approximated today and indications point to a week-end of settled weather, Mr. von Herrmann said.

Fair skies and level temperatures prevail generally over the cotton belt, the weather bureau reported.

STEELE NOMINATION WILL BE MADE TODAY

Decatur, Ga., September 21.—(Special.)—Hundreds of citizens will gather at the courthouse here Saturday at noon to attend the exercises of the fifth district executive democratic committee in officially nominating Representative Leslie J. Steele as congressman-elect from this district.

Mr. Steele, who defeated former Representative William D. Upshaw by an overwhelming majority in the state primary September 12, will be notified of his appointment and a district organization is expected to be perfected. Resolutions pledging the support of the organization to the national democratic party ticket also probably will be adopted and several prominent members of the district organization are expected to make impromptu addresses.

WELCOME PLANNED FOR NEW CITIZENS

When 751 Southern railway employees from Washington arrive in Atlanta today week, a special committee of Atlanta citizens will extend them a warm southern welcome, it was announced Friday by Mayor I. N. Ragsdale.

The mayor today will name a committee of about 100 prominent Atlantans to meet the new "settlers" at the station when they detrain and to welcome them to their new home.

"Arrival of this large group of Southern railway employees to my mind is the biggest single undertaking of its kind which ever occurred here," the mayor said. "Atlanta should assure them of the city's high regard for them and try to make them feel glad they are coming here to live. Scores of them will move entire families to the city, and they will be some of the city's best citizens."

DEMOCRATS ASK FOR MORE FUNDS

New York, September 21.—(AP)—Colonel Herbert H. Lehman, democratic finance director, tonight in nationwide radio appeal for funds disclosed that the party has in cash or pledges $1,500,000 of the $4,000,000 budget needed.

"Undoubtedly many people," he said, "have gained the mistaken impression that the democratic national committee is in possession of a large fund with which to carry on the campaign, and that therefore no widespread or popular financial support is necessary."

This impression, he believed, had been created by several large gifts from personal friends of Governor Smith and Senator Robinson. "We need the support of every man and woman in this country who admires or loves Governor Smith," he said.

Hoover Pleaded. Turning from his appeal for funds, the democratic finance director asserted "the candidacy of Herbert C. Hoover holds no promise of anything beyond what the country has experienced in the last eight years under administrations of which he has been a part as a member of the cabinet. Certainly he has acknowledged the existence of many very clearly-defined moral abuses and economic weaknesses."

"In view of the position which he has held for the last eight years, as a member of the cabinet, the closest adviser of the president, continuously powerful in the councils of the republican party, which, throughout that period, controlled the congress, how can he expect people to believe that he or his party will do anything next year that could not have been done by his party a year ago, two years ago, or five years ago, if proper sympathy with and understanding of the problems had existed, and nothing has been done?"

Relief Long Sought. "For eight years agriculture, the basic industry of the country, has been asking in vain for relief from post-war depression. It has received only promises. The textile industry, soft coal industry and other industries have likewise failed to prosper."

Whatever prosperity there is, the Colonel said, is not due to republican administration, but to the effect of the war that changed the credit status of a debtor to a creditor nation.

As for Governor Smith, Colonel Lehman said "no executive has shown more social foresight in such matters as housing, public health, provision of parks, education and other activities than he."

3 FOUND GUILTY OF CAR BREAKING

Pleas of guilty to charges of car breaking and stealing blankets, sheets and a porter's coat from Pullman cars brought sentences of four years each Friday in Judge E. J. Thomas' division of Fulton superior court. John Williams, who was found guilty of car breaking, was sentenced to three to five years.

Will E. Hinton received sentences of two to four years on each of two counts of burglary. Hinton pleaded guilty before Judge Thomas. Charges of stealing Oriental rugs from L. L. Hunnicutt, of 76 Inman circle, and from Harry Bloch, of 41 Palisades road.

Joe Evans and James Pope were sentenced to four to 10 years each, and Ernest Shoats was sent to the state reformatory when the trio pleaded guilty before Judge John D. Humphries on charges of robbing L. C. Matthews, of 102 Luckie street, N. W., of $245.02.

Charged with larceny of casket handles, coffin plates and lifters from David T. Howard company, John Allen was found guilty and Marion Welton pleaded guilty. Both Allen and Welton received sentences of one to two years in Judge Humphries' court.

DALLAS POSTAL OFFICIAL IS HEAD OF POSTMASTERS

Asheville, N. C., September 21.—(AP)—John W. Phillips of Dallas was elected president of the National Association of Postmasters at the final session of the 25th session of their convention today. He succeeded Arthur C. Lueder, of Chicago.

Sacramento, Calif., was chosen for the 1929 convention, winning over 14 other cities including Denver, Baltimore and Los Angeles.

A. L. Behrmer, of Cincinnati, was advanced from second to first vice president and Harry T. Weeks, of Patchogue, N. Y., from third to second vice president. W. E. Paschal, Union City, Pa., is the third vice president.

The resolutions committee endorsed the Hoge-Watson bill to increase postmaster's salaries and condemned the substitute bill which would increase the increase effective on only the top classes.

CONCERT ORGANIST INDICTED IN THEFT OF ATLANTA AUTO

An indictment charging Paul Franck, 26, Parisian concert organist, with larceny of an automobile from M. A. Ferst, of 850 Oakdale road, was returned Friday by the Fulton grand jury. Franck was arrested in Louisville, Ky., by a postmaster's office said that steps for his removal to Atlanta would be taken immediately.

The sedan, valued at $2,500, disappeared from the corner of Fourteenth and Piedmont avenue on August 3 while Mrs. Ferst was taking instructions in French from Mrs. Franck, according to police.

BLACKBURN SENDS MESSAGE PRAISING SPEECH OF SMITH

Benjamin M. Blackburn, well-known Atlantian, Friday sent the following telegram to Denver addressed to Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York, democratic candidate for the presidency:

"Your Omaha speech, a masterpiece of satire, convincing logic and satisfying statesmanship, was a compelling vote-getter. You did right at Oklahoma in dragging masked slander and cowardice into the open. Am glad the evangelistic mountebank was made to hear it. Both speeches made great impressions here. Georgia will give you a wholesome majority."

Last Chance Given Children In Animal Picture Contest

TICKETS TO "SIMBA" TO REWARD WINNERS

Here, kiddies is the last of the animal pictures to be identified in the Constitution's contest to award 25 Atlanta boys and girls under 12 years of age 25 pairs of tickets to see "Simba" at the Erlanger theater next week.

This is the crowning animal of the series of six. The natives of Africa call him "Simba," and he is the hero of the motion picture to be shown at the Erlanger theater. The very mention of his name, shouted "Simba-bah!" sends chills down the spine of native warriors who go forth armed only with skin shields and crude spears to battle with him to the death.

Do you know his name? Write it on the coupon which appears with this article, give the country he is native of and tell what species of animals he belongs to. Then write an essay of less than 200 words telling if he would make an interesting animal for our zoo, and why?

Judges will select 25 of the best essays with correct answers and each one of these children will receive a pair of tickets to see "Simba" at the Erlanger. You do not have to send in the whole series of animals. One is enough to win.

Final date for receiving entries is Monday at 6 p. m. Mail your coupon and essay now so you'll be sure of a chance to see "Simba" free.

NO. 6 "SIMBA" CONTEST

1. Name of animal.
2. In what country does this species live?
3. To what family of animals does it belong?
4. Would this be an interesting animal for our zoo and why?

(Essay less than 200 words.)

QUICK GUN-PLAY BEATS MONEY-PASSERS

In exchange for a traveler's check, Cullum wasn't impressed. He reminded them from time to time to "reach high" and they began to "reach high." "Let us go, mister," one of them proposed humbly, "and we'll give you that bill and some more."

Plead for Liberty. "We'll give you all the money we got on us," they pleaded.

"We'll give you the car, too," the other pleaded. "We'll give you the car, too," the other pleaded. "We'll give you the car, too," the other pleaded.

Confident that his erstwhile customers were "bad eggs," Cullum had them stand still. He called to his wife to have his son-in-law notify Sheriff George Gaddis of the situation.

Pending the arrival of the sheriff and Deputy Vaughan, Cullum scrutinized the faces of the men he was holding at bay. He noted their clothing, their physical features and their general appearance.

It was only when he heard the sheriff's car drive up outside the store that he relaxed his vigilance. That moment was fatal—to Deputy Vaughan, outside. In that brief instant the nearer of the two sprang at the storekeeper, wrested the revolver from his hand, although Cullum clung to the desperado's arm, and rushed out into the doubtful light of the country road, shooting Vaughan to death as he was getting out of the car.

Today, however, Solie was in a measure compensated for his minutes of scrutiny of the two men. With Sheriff Gaddis he went to Dalton where the two suspects were held, and where the two suspects were held, and where the two suspects were held.

Sheriff Fought Fair. Sheriff Gaddis, picturesque two-gun officer of Bartow county, who, half blind by powder burns, stood in the middle of the dark road and blazed away at the two men, fulfilled his promise last night that he would not rest until the slayers of Deputy Vaughan were behind the bars. To-night, after his return from Dalton, he went to bed for the first time in almost 36 hours, after hours of hard riding in his hunt for the slayers, covering the entire section between here and Dalton.

Who had the reputation of being one of the most fearless officers in this section, will be held from the Methodist church at White, Bartow county, Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Vaughan was a native of White and one of the most popular peace officers in the county.

Circuit Judge Claude Pittman tonight assured the public that the alleged slayers of Vaughan would be given a trial at the earliest possible moment. Meanwhile they will be held in the Dalton jail, Sheriff Gaddis announced.

TRUE BILLS VOTED IN MURDER FARM

Riverside, Calif., September 21.—(AP)—Murder indictments against Gordon Stuart Northcott, 20, and his mother, Mrs. Sarah Louise Northcott, charging them with slaying youths on the Northcott chicken ranch near here were returned by the county grand jury today.

Northcott and his mother, both of whom are under arrest in Canada, were charged in the indictment with the murder of Walter Collins, 10, who disappeared last spring from Glendale, Calif. The second bill charged Northcott with the slaying of an unidentified Mexican youth and Louis and Nelson Winslow, aged 12 and 10, respectively, who disappeared several months ago from Pomona, Calif.

The second indictment charged the 20-year-old Canadian with an "infamous crime" against Sanford Clark, 15-year-old nephew of Northcott, who declared he was shamefully mistreated over a period of two years and that he remained a virtual prisoner on the Northcott chicken ranch.

The two indictments were returned late today in superior court. District Attorney Albert F. Ford announced that he would send a telegram to Secretary of State Frank Kellogg at Washington asking the provisional arrest of Northcott and his mother by Canadian authorities.

Cyrus G. Northcott, father of Gordon Northcott, and young Clark, who first revealed the existence of the alleged "murder farm," were witnesses before the jury.

Northcott, who is being held as a material witness, today expressed fear for his life should he be confronted by his son and the latter's mother. He told investigators that he was aware that four boys had been slain on his ranch, but did not see the murders committed.

MARYLAND LEADER OF LABOR SAYS SMITH IS CHOICE

Washington, September 21.—(AP)—R. A. Dickson, vice president of the Maryland State and District of Columbia Federation of Labor, denied today that Governor Smith would lose the labor vote in Maryland if it became known that he would appoint Governor Ritchie attorney general in his cabinet in the event of his election.

The denial was intended as a reply to E. J. Bieretz, who is connected with the Building and Trades section of organized labor, and was in the form of a letter to John I. Raskob, democratic national chairman. Bieretz said that Governor Smith would lose the Maryland labor vote if it became known that he intended to appoint Governor Ritchie attorney general if the democrats win.

Dickson said that Bieretz had long been an opponent of Governor Ritchie and said "that he could not control the vote of his own delegation from Baltimore at the last three conventions of the Maryland State Federation of Labor."

"I challenge the honesty of Bieretz's statement," Mr. Dickson said.

G. M. A. STUDENT MISSING, FATHER REQUESTS SEARCH

Atlanta police Friday night were asked to aid in a search for Thomas Medlin, of Charlotte, N. C., who disappeared Thursday afternoon from Georgia Military academy at College Park. The request for aid was contained in a telegram from the boy's father to Assistant Chief of Police C. P. Connally.

The wire read: "Thomas Medlin, my son, left Georgia Military academy yesterday at 1 o'clock and has not been seen or heard from since. Please investigate fully and notify as soon as possible. Secure description from academy. W. Arthur Medlin." The message was received by Chief Connally late Friday night and a call to the academy verified the fact of the boy's disappearance.

400,000 NEED HELP IN PORTO RICO

San Juan, September 21.—(AP)—Four hundred thousand destitute persons need immediate assistance and most of them will require help for a considerable time in the opinion of the Red Cross organization here. This, the first "quick estimate" of the post hurricane needs of Porto Rico, was telegraphed to Washington today.

Requests for additional tents, cots and blankets were also sent to the federal capital.

The workers on the ground said that they could not at this time meet the headquarters request for an estimate of money requirements.

Health and hygiene are occupying much of the attention of the relief workers. Influenza, measles and malaria are in prospect for the stricken population but all rescue agencies are bending every effort to ward off disease.

One of the unusual effects of the storm is a scarcity in domestic pets, particularly dogs. In its story of a week ago, the Associated Press said that even the cats and dogs that nightly prowled among the garbage cans, sought shelter indoors. Exploration of storm ruins has revealed dozens of dead dogs. Owners of thoroughbred animals, part, lately airdales, bulls and police dogs, state that their pets have either been lost or made seriously ill by the storm experience.

HELP! AND HELP QUICK!

The American Red Cross needs and must have at the earliest possible moment $5,000,000 to meet imperative demands of humanity in the storm and flooded areas of Florida and Porto Rico.

Atlanta's quota is $60,000, and it should be subscribed and provided at once.

The horrors in the path of the tropical hurricane of a week ago are beyond description.

The scenes of wreckage from the Palm Beaches into the Lake Okechobee section of the sun-baked Everglades are made the more horrible by piles of decomposed dead.

The toll of human lives is now placed at 800 to 1,200 in a comparatively small area of Florida, and yet, as distressing as is the situation, as unbounded as is the present suffering, an even greater menace is threatened through starvation, famine and fever.

While all of the larger cities of Florida, and a major portion of the state escaped injuries, it is a fact that in the territory lashed by the storm the devastation was almost complete.

Particularly, in the stricken sections of the interior, the small wooden houses succumbed to the angry winds and waters as heaps of chaff in the path of a whirlwind.

Hundreds of people were drowned, other hundreds were killed by falling timbers, other hundreds died from exposure and exhaustion. Thousands are suffering refugees.

The situation in Porto Rico is no less heart-rending.

Four hundred thousand of people are homeless and practically foodless, and of the 1,000 who were killed or drowned in the winds and torrents hundreds of bodies are yet unburied.

As in Florida, the health problem is grave, and epidemics are threatened.

The emergency is acute, and the needs are imperative.

There is no time to waste if the distress is not compounded.

Doctors, nurses, orderlies, laborers, medicines, food, clothing—all of these are needed, and needed now!

The Red Cross is on the job, as it always is in such distress. But it must have funds.

Atlanta has never failed. It raised in excess of the $60,000 for the Mississippi flood sufferers in record time.

The present appeal is no less gripping. In some respects the present demand for the alleviation of human suffering are even more gripping.

Every firm, and every citizen, able to give, should give, and give generously.

Get in touch with the local chapter of the Red Cross without a minute's delay, for the emergency needs are found far in excess of the preliminary estimates.

BLESSED ARE THE MEEK—
The lofty looks of man shall be humbled, and the haughtiness of men shall be bowed down: and the Lord alone shall be exalted in that day.—Isa. 2:11.

PRAYER—We would bring to Thee, O Lord, only broken and contrite hearts.

HELP! AND HELP QUICK!

The American Red Cross needs and must have at the earliest possible moment $5,000,000 to meet imperative demands of humanity in the storm and flooded areas of Florida and Porto Rico.

Atlanta's quota is $60,000, and it should be subscribed and provided at once.

The horrors in the path of the tropical hurricane of a week ago are beyond description.

The scenes of wreckage from the Palm Beaches into the Lake Okechobee section of the sun-baked Everglades are made the more horrible by piles of decomposed dead.

The toll of human lives is now placed at 800 to 1,200 in a comparatively small area of Florida, and yet, as distressing as is the situation, as unbounded as is the present suffering, an even greater menace is threatened through starvation, famine and fever.

While all of the larger cities of Florida, and a major portion of the state escaped injuries, it is a fact that in the territory lashed by the storm the devastation was almost complete.

Particularly, in the stricken sections of the interior, the small wooden houses succumbed to the angry winds and waters as heaps of chaff in the path of a whirlwind.

Hundreds of people were drowned, other hundreds were killed by falling timbers, other hundreds died from exposure and exhaustion. Thousands are suffering refugees.

The situation in Porto Rico is no less heart-rending.

Four hundred thousand of people are homeless and practically foodless, and of the 1,000 who were killed or drowned in the winds and torrents hundreds of bodies are yet unburied.

As in Florida, the health problem is grave, and epidemics are threatened.

The emergency is acute, and the needs are imperative.

There is no time to waste if the distress is not compounded.

Doctors, nurses, orderlies, laborers, medicines, food, clothing—all of these are needed, and needed now!

The Red Cross is on the job, as it always is in such distress. But it must have funds.

Atlanta has never failed. It raised in excess of the $60,000 for the Mississippi flood sufferers in record time.

The present appeal is no less gripping. In some respects the present demand for the alleviation of human suffering are even more gripping.

Every firm, and every citizen, able to give, should give, and give generously.

Get in touch with the local chapter of the Red Cross without a minute's delay, for the emergency needs are found far in excess of the preliminary estimates.

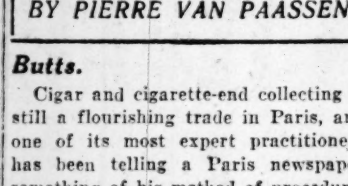

The great heart of Atlanta will respond, but it must do so without delay.

It is a crisis!

1928 FAIR TO OPEN WEEK FROM TODAY

One week from today on Saturday, September 29, the Southeastern fair will swing open its gates to its 1928 edition, an event which promises to be the best fair in the history of the association, according to Arthur L. Brooke, president, and Oscar Mills, secretary and manager. Lakewood park is now teeming with workmen making ready for the early exhibits which are to begin arriving early next week.

Entries in the cattle, swine, sheep, goat and horticulture departments will close at midnight tonight, while entries in the rabbit and poultry show will close Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Entries in the single stalk of cotton exhibit will close next Wednesday night.

Hundreds of workmen have been busy during the past two weeks and much progress has been made in outside work. The three exhibit buildings, the cattle and swine barn and other smaller buildings have been erected and are watertight. Workmen will begin Monday the task of arranging the partitions within the buildings, making ready to receive the exhibits.

Many lunch stands have been erected and virtually every inch of space on the midway will be taken up by the side show or lunch stand of some kind, and within the next few days, practically every stand will be completed.

Work of laying a culvert and filling in north of the swine barn is progressing rapidly and within a few days the work will be completed and more than 1,000 automobiles can be parked in the newly-created parking ground. Guides will be stationed in the new area during the fair to assist autoists.

Announcement was made Friday afternoon that Bobby Walther, internationally known Atlanta bicycle champion of former days, again will don his riding suit and will race on the opening Saturday and Sunday during the fair. A special match race had been arranged with Vincent Cassella, famous Italian cyclist.

MADDOX AIDS SLATER IN DRIVE FOR SOUTH

With G. E. Maddox, chairman of the state democratic committee, actively at work in the democratic state campaign headquarters, work of organizing the congressional districts in support of Smith and Robinson was proceeding at a rapid rate, it was announced Friday by John R. Slater, state campaign manager.

Mr. Maddox has just finished his work in connection with the state democratic primary and he is now devoting a considerable part of his time to duties in the national campaign headquarters.

"It will be a pleasure for me to work with Mr. Slater in the state campaign," Mr. Maddox said. "He has done wonderful work and has made good every expectation of him. I am proud to have him as one of these headquarters."

Mr. Slater expressed pleasure over the acquisition of Mr. Maddox's services. "I am delighted that Mr. Maddox is going to lend his active help in the presidential fight," said Mr. Slater.

"He has entered these headquarters at a heavy sacrifice to himself and I believe that his contribution to the party will be appreciated by all of the democrats of Georgia. For several weeks, in fact, ever since these headquarters were opened, Mr. Maddox has been cooperating in every way in our organization work and his advice has been most helpful."

"His presence in headquarters daily will prove an inspiration to our active workers, and his advice will be gladly sought. As the directing genius of the democratic organization of the state, Mr. Maddox, in my opinion, is the best posted man in Georgia concerning those details that are so important at a time like this, more especially since the supremacy of the democratic party in the state is being challenged."

EULA WILL SPEND SIXTY-DAY RESPIRE IN MURRAY JAIL

Beginning her 60-day respite from sentence of death, Eula Elrod Thompson Friday spent several hours in Atlanta en route to Chatsworth, her home town, where she is to remain until her fate is finally decided by Governor Hardman.

She left the state farm Thursday night and proceeded to Macon, where she was lodged in the Bibb county jail for the night. She arrived in Atlanta Friday morning at 5:45 o'clock.

Machinists Decline To Join With Radical Workers' Party

The International Association of Machinists, in session at the Biltmore hotel, Friday reaffirmed its action of four years ago in declining to affiliate with the workers' party, an organization said to favor radicalism. There was unanimous sentiment at the convention against any communistic tendency, it was said.

The convention, opening last Monday, assembled at the Biltmore hotel some 400 delegates from all parts of America, and the meeting likely will continue late into next week, since it is said that a large amount of important business to come up here can hardly be disposed of before that time.

At Friday's meeting it was recommended that government employees' pensions be increased to a maximum of $100 per month, and that employees of 30 years' service be given the

Alleged Slayer Of Father-in-Law Held in New York

Jackson, Ga., September 21.—(Special.)—Walter Vickers, young white man, wanted in Butts county on a charge of the murder of his father-in-law, Zack Hardy, on September 27, 1926, is under arrest in New York, according to a message received by Sheriff W. D. Pope. After securing extradition papers, Sheriff Pope and City Policeman J. T. McMichael left for New York to bring Vickers back to Georgia.

Hardy, a man 72 years of age, was slain when he arose and went to a well some distance from the house to obtain a bucket of water. Vickers, according to an alleged confession he is said to have made to officers at the time of his arrest, fired the shot that killed his father-in-law. The trouble started over the sale of a bale of cotton, it was declared. Vickers was confined in the Butts county jail, but before being arraigned at the February term of court escaped by digging a hole through the jail walls. He was later captured and again confined in jail here, but escaped the second time. He has been at large for the past several months.

Vickers was traced and captured through a letter written to his wife in Butts county, it was stated.

Before leaving for New York Sheriff Pope stated that Vickers would be confined in Atlanta for safekeeping, pending his trial here.

SMITH IS IN FULL VIGOR OF HEALTH ON WESTERN TOUR

Governor Smith's Train, En Route to Denver, September 21.—(Special.)—The following formal statement was issued tonight by Joseph L. Cohn, personal publicity representative of Governor Smith:

"Bruce Kremer, national committee man from Montana, and Dr. Charles W. Berry, both members of the personal party, today repudiated an item published in the Wichita, Kas., Beacon, which declared that Governor Smith had become so fatigued from continuous hand-shaking and his long trip that he might suffer a breakdown before his western tour is complete, as did the late President Wilson on his tour for the League of Nations in 1919, and that advisers of the governor were worried today."

"I make no such statement and the statement is not in accordance with the facts," Mr. Kremer declared. "I repudiate it in its entirety."

Dr. Berry said: "Governor Smith has never been in better health and I have known him for many, many years. As a matter of fact he is thoroughly enjoying the trip and he is thriving upon it. The story is a lot of bunk."

Mr. Kremer interjected: "Not one of the 40 newspaper men aboard this train would think of writing such a story, as they all know Governor Smith is enjoying the best of health. The story referred to by Cohn was called to Governor Smith's attention after the campaign special had left Wichita. It had been written by a staff correspondent who had traveled from Oklahoma City to Wichita with the nominee's party and it quoted Kremer."

RUSSELL RESIGNS AS U. S. ATTORNEY IN MIDDLE DISTRICT

SOUTH GEORGIA PINE LAUDED BY EXPERTS

Waycross, Ga., September 21.—(Special.)—South Georgia is the center of the most prosperous pine timber area in the world and the development of the pine resources of this section is one of the greatest opportunities presented to the south-east, nationally known forestry experts said at the forestry fair in Waycross today.

Glowing tributes to the increasing interest being shown here in forest protection from fire and in general reforestation work were paid Friday by Major W. Du Brooks, manager of the national resources production department of the United States Chamber of Commerce; by J. G. Peters, assistant forester of the United States forest service, and by Mark W. Bray, chemist of the United States forest products laboratory at Madison, Wis.

The speakers, all of whom have made tours of inspection into the south Georgia woods, have been impressed with the luxuriant growth of valuable pine trees and they point to the fact that south Georgia can develop an untold wealth if the public will cooperate with the timberland owners in keeping destructive fires out of the forests.

Friday's program included the showing of several interesting motion picture films by the American Forestry association, and demonstrations of wood saw and sawmill operations. Saturday, the closing day of the four-day program, will be observed as summary day, with B. M. Lufburrow, state forester, as the presiding officer.

H. N. Wheeler, chief lecturer of the United States forest service, will be among the principal speakers at the closing session.

Jackson, Ga., September 21.—(Special.)—The local cannery factory is having a satisfactory season with pimiento peppers, and 96 tons were canned the past week, amounting to some 140,000 to 150,000 cans, it is announced by D. P. Settle, president of the local company.

An even larger supply of peppers was brought in this week and the factory is running on practically a full-time basis. The quality of the pepper being brought to the factory is said to be the best in several seasons. The crop is still bearing and the plant will operate until the first killing frost. Both the growers and the cannery plant are having a good year, reports show.

Mrs. Vaughan Chosen To Head Garden Club At Cartersville, Ga.

Cartersville, September 21.—Mrs. F. J. Vaughan, one of Cartersville's most prominent young matrons, was the unanimous choice of the newly organized Garden club for the office of president at the initial meeting held here Thursday afternoon.

Representatives of the Hastings company, of Atlanta, were present, and offered their services to the club members in their plans to beautify their yards and landscape work around public buildings here.

At the same time the club elected Mrs. R. E. Adair vice president; Mrs. J. R. Whitaker secretary; Mrs. Harry Cobb recording secretary, and Mrs. Colquitt Finley treasurer.

The club was organized through the personal efforts of Mrs. Mary Jones Turner, of Marietta, who has taken a leading part in the work of the garden clubs in this section of the state.

In Cobb county, she said, an effort is now being made to have every boy and girl in the county schools plant at least one flower.

$5,000 IN SIGHT FOR CARNES HUNT

With a reward of $5,000 already in sight, Solicitor General John A. Boykin Friday was confident that before the end of next week he would be able to post a total of $10,000 for the capture of the fugitive Clinton S. Carnes, vanished treasurer of the home mission board of the Southern Baptist convention.

Officials of the mission board already have informed Mr. Boykin of their willingness to contribute $2,500 to the fund while the United States Fidelity and Guaranty company which bonded the missing man to the extent of $50,000 is expected to offer a similar reward. Mr. Boykin also planned to call on Governor L. G. Hardman, asking him to contribute to the fund. The solicitor general already has offered a personal reward of $250 and issued a general appeal to citizens to add to it.

Will Estimate Assets.
Thomas Howell Scott, one of the receivers appointed by the DeKalb superior court to gather and conserve all of Carnes' assets, announced Friday that he was rapidly gaining a deep insight into all Carnes' private affairs and soon would be able to state definitely his estimated value of all property and other assets left behind by the missing man.

"Just how far Carnes' alleged misappropriation of the mission board's funds went toward making up his alleged shortages with the mission board I cannot say positively yet," Mr. Scott said. "Carnes, it develops, had a number of business enterprises which were not even known to his family and it depends on the value of these as to just how much the mission board will receive."

Members of Carnes' family already have informed the mission board that they will go toward making up his alleged shortages with the mission board. Mr. Scott said "Carnes, it develops, had a number of business enterprises which were not even known to his family and it depends on the value of these as to just how much the mission board will receive."

Author of the use of the solicitor general's contingent fund to circularize the county in the search for Carnes was granted Friday to Solicitor General John A. Boykin by the board of county commissioners.

Captain George M. Hope, chairman of the finance committee, was appointed to report to the board with power to act in the matter. Captain Hope will obtain an estimate of how much is needed in the search for Carnes after the circulars are taken care of, and is to make recommendations to the board.

Mr. Boykin and Clifford Walker, ex-governor, who has been retained by Boykin in the search for Carnes, appeared before the county commission in the matter.

Large Crowd Sees Roby's First Show

Negro Battlers Furnish Plenty of Action; Walker Beats Clark.

BY BEN COTHRAN.
Mr. S. C. Roby, business man of this city, has carried his business ideas into the ring, and Friday night at the auditorium gave an inquisitive Atlanta public the first inkling of what he was going to do with the $10,000 which he is reported to have set aside in a commendable effort to revive the manly art of modified murder in Atlanta.

Judging from the way those who saw fit to attend Friday's affair applauded, stormed, cheered and otherwise made themselves noisy, Mr. Roby has done very well.

He must have had close to 3,000 people on hand as several negroes of all shapes, sizes and descriptions entered the ring, slung gloves at each other and then departed. It was in using this type of fighter that Mr. Roby demonstrated his business acumen. The colored lads quite naturally do not command such a high price for their services as those alleged fighters of the Caucasian race. And also, the colored boys, even if some of them don't know any great lot about fighting, once in the ring, slung gloves, with considerable skill and abandon, landing the wildest of swings and giving a general atmosphere of hustle and bustle to the entire proceedings. This, of course, pleased the crowd, and to be successful in a business of the sort in which Mr. Roby has just entered, it is quite necessary that you please the crowd.

Plenty Action.

There was action from beginning to end. It dragged sometimes. Sometimes it was furious, but on the whole it was rather satisfying. The first bout was a fight between a local colored fighter who held up the show for a few minutes when Charlie King, enraged at a decision made by the popular Bill Hooker, in whose favor Williams had decided, declaring that King had committed a foul, lunged at King, but was drawn off by his seconds. Hooker, upon leaving the ring, shook his fist in menacing fashion at King, uttering dire imprecations the while. It was very amusing and pleased the customers no little.

That was in one of the preliminaries. It was the main bout which brought forth a roar from the audience. Roby dug up a quite large colored lad by the name of Ode Clark who towers for a goodly distance in the air and is possessed by the largest pair of feet ever to tread in a local ring. He was opposed by Al Walker, of New York, who was scored two days ago to substitute for Johnson. Walker only weighed 135 pounds and looked even lighter than that beside the towering Clark.

Clark in trouble.
But about two seconds after the fight started it seemed that Clark was having trouble shifting his feet or at least he couldn't get out of the way of a rather effective left hand attached to Walker's left arm which lashed out continually and ran itself with considerable force into Clark's head. In about 30 seconds the huge bulk of Clark was reposing on the floor. Clark got up and a few moments later was on the canvas again. Then he went down a third time and this, Referee Jake Sartain decided, was enough, so he raised Walker's hand in token of victory. The New York boxer, it seems, is very explicit, and he certainly lost little time in disposing of his gigantic opponent.

That followed a ten-round semi-win which Roy Dunn posted and pounded Kid Macon from post to post for eight rounds. Macon's seconds finally throwing in the towel when it was apparent that the boy could go no further.

The only bout lacking in interest was the affair between Cecil Flowers and Battling Hooker. Hooker won over Charlie King as has been related. This was preceded by a battle royal in which five quite small negro boys participated and mixed in rather lively fashion for some few minutes.

It was one of the largest crowds that the boxing game at Atlanta has seen in some time, and the crowd seemed well pleased with the action provided. How long the

King Football Makes Season's Debut Today

Teams in Many Parts of Country Will Swing Into Action Today in Opening Tilts.

BY ALAN J. GOULD,
Associated Press Sports Editor.
New York, September 21.—(AP)—It is a trifle early to expect much of the tumult and roar to shift from the diamond to the gridiron, but enough footballs will be flying through the air in various sectors tomorrow to let the world know the season is on, anyway. The main gridiron event will be the opening tilt of the King Football club, which will be one before King Football club on his crown to dominate the spotlight of sports until the snow flies. Nevertheless, representative teams in three of the main areas of battle will be seen in action tomorrow, even if only for the benefit of an early start or a good workout.

Out on the Pacific coast Pop Warner's Stanford Cardinals start out with a double-header, a new gridiron fashion that has taken quite a hold on this year's schedule-making. To judge from advance reports, Stanford has unusually bright prospects for the campaign, hopeful of winning another rugged season, but otherwise the pre-King Football club on his crown to dominate the spotlight of sports until the snow flies. Nevertheless, representative teams in three of the main areas of battle will be seen in action tomorrow, even if only for the benefit of an early start or a good workout.

Needs Plenty Work.
Washington State, Oregon and the University of California at Los Angeles also are slated for preliminary skirmishes tomorrow, while in the southwest Texas Christian, The Texas Aggies and Southern Methodist are among those listed to play. Southern Methodist will need all the advance preparation it can get for that long early season jaunt to West Point October 6, where the Mustangs will rove the Army plains.

Century's famed gentlemen, who compiled an impressive record last season in the south and southwest, also get an early start, along with Center, South Carolina and William and Mary, among other prominent elements below the Mason and Dixon line. West Virginia tackles Davis and Elkins by way of a pipe-opener for a rugged season, but otherwise the pre-King Football club on his crown to dominate the spotlight of sports until the snow flies. Nevertheless, representative teams in three of the main areas of battle will be seen in action tomorrow, even if only for the benefit of an early start or a good workout.

These scattered few conflicts, in themselves of little apparent consequence, nevertheless give advance warning of a season likely to smash all college football records for attendance, keen championship fights and intercollegiate rivalry.

Record Crowd Expected.
It will be a strange campaign without the Army-Navy classic as a climax, but there will be no lack of color or thrills on that account. Both service institutions intend to do all they can to offset it. The midwestern journey west to Chicago for a game with Notre Dame that is expected to attract an unprecedented attendance of 105,000 in the new historic Soldier Field is the highlight of the season for several teams. The Duke and Princeton while the Army is bringing east the champions or near champions of most of the main sectors, among them Southern Methodist, Nebraska, Notre Dame and Stanford.

Added to these affairs of unusual intercollegiate flavor will be such games as Alabama-Wisconsin, Colgate-Vanderbilt, Georgia Tech-Notre Dame, Chicago-Pennsylvania, Ohio State-Princeton, Dartmouth-Northwestern, Michigan-Navy, Georgia-Yale, Syracuse-Nebraska, Pittsburgh-Nebraska, Missouri-New York University and Oklahoma Aggies-West Virginia to close the slate. The football fan who can't find something here to stir up his interest, whether he happens to be in the stands or tuning in at home, will be hard to satisfy.

Rome High To Open Season With Fulton

Rome, Ga., September 21.—Rome High school will open the football season here playing Fulton High school of Atlanta in Rome Friday, September 28, at Barron field.

The schools have not met on the gridiron for several seasons and both have always had good teams it will be a good test of each team's strength.

Rome High is lighter this year, but the local boys are going through hard sessions of practice daily and Coach Brewer is not sparing them any.

With the return of a good portion of the line and practically all the backfield, those who have seen the boys practice say the school will have another championship team this season.

Rogers Hornsby pushed his mark two points upward to 388 with three out of five in a double-header at Boston, and so registered an advance of one point over Paul Waner, who picked up a single point at 382 with two out of four against the Phillies. Two of Hornsby's drives were home runs, bringing his total for the season to 20.

Facing a schedule that lines up Penn State, Navy, Chicago, Harvard, Columbia and Cornell for successive games, Pennsylvania has four fine backs and seven sturdy linemen. The rest is problematical. There are Paul Scull, the captain; Paul Murphy, John Shober and a sophomore who may be a sensation; Dick Gentle, for the backfield. ## WAKE-EYE-ING SPORTS

BY DICK HAWKINS.
The Dread Malady
THERE seems to be very little use in going through this football season. Tech has won all its games by whatever scores they choose to amass and everything is rosy—provided you take the opinion of the Tech alumni as an indicator.

In all justice it should be noted that a number of alumni and supporters, particularly those who have played football, are not expressing their optimism in loud tones but the vote is practically unanimous albeit silence in some cases.

Unfortunately for Georgia School of Technology the alumni and supporters can not win games when the team is playing them. Even the A. and S. who are wagering that Tech will win every game and giving six points to every team on the schedule, can't take any part in the winning of the games except perhaps a purely vocal part.

Verbal halibuts and loquacious tables never won games for any school but this is not a criticism of alumni and supporters. That fraternity is the same the world over and the alumnus who has no confidence in his college does not deserve the name.

But the point happens to be that Tech has not won all the games and that Tech is not particularly likely to win all the games on this schedule. In the much abused words of Uncle Pat Henry, "If that be treason make the most of it."

The fact still remains that Tech's biggest problem at the present time lies in THE GAMES THEY HAVE WON DURING THE COMING SEASON. This futuristic statement means simply that Tech's greatest problem is one of morale. Coach William A. Alexander is the best morale coach in the south today but this season he will have his capable hands full keeping the boys from falling prey to a dread epidemic of elephantitis of the cranium, sometimes known as swell-head.

With a schedule such as the one Tech faces this year there is no time for swell-head. From the first game to the last there can be no let-up in vigilance. It is common knowledge among athletes and coaches that no team or individual can be kept at the peak of form for a great number of weeks. Therefore it will be necessary for Alex to get the boys on top for about three games in the schedule and between these points the germs of the terrible epidemic will be ready for work.

When a team is being groomed for a hard game the anti-toxin of hard work and continual thought will check the ravages of the epidemic but with coaches afraid to get the boys too far on top the work will slow up a bit then comes the time when the players begin to wonder if they aren't about the best combination in the world. The wondering leads to mutual agreement and along comes the plague. Then some "easy" opponent sneaks up behind and clips the "winner" a crack on the inflated cranium.

Confronted by such a list of games as Tech is this year the man who wagers good money that Tech will win all of its encounters is either over-optimistic or his admiration for the galaxy of material out at the flats is blinding his judgment. If the members of the team ever get SURE they are going to win all the games only a miracle will save them. There's a difference between confidence and cock-sureness.

WEALTHY GRID PLAYERS GIVE COACHES LESS WORRY THAN POOR ONES

BY EDWARD J. NEIL,
Associated Press Sports Writer.
Philadelphia, September 21.—(AP)—Perhaps the sons of wealthy families do not turn out to be better football players than those who are obliged now and then to toil for a living, but they certainly are easier on the mind of a coach.

That thought belongs to Lou Young, curly-headed, kindly leader of Pennsylvania's gridiron forces. It comes of constant association through the past 10 or 15 years with both types of young men, on football fields and off. He explains it this way: "You never worry in the off season about a boy whose parents are wealthy because you know that he is somewhere out in the open, getting some exercise, burning and husky, building in healthy leisure for the rugged work of the fall. The athlete who has to work in the off season may be cramped over a desk and return to college all tired out."

"The wealthy youngster comes back to football in great shape, ready for play. When the season is over you forget about him until the next fall rolls around."

"Consider the Other."
But consider the other fellow. You worry about whether he has a job and can return to college all right. If he hasn't a job you get him one. When college opens you must see that the work he does is swapped off against football so that he gets the most good in both directions.

Coaches are busy now since September 4 building a team that has caught his imagination and lifted his hopes for a championship eleven to heights, also known as what happened to all the reserve material missing on so many prominent eastern gridirons this fall.

"More and more," he says, "the small colleges are biting into the big fellows. At one time a youngster of definite football ability never considered anything but the major colleges when he graduated from prep school. Why, Lebanon Valley and Franklin and Marshall got more promising prep school material this fall than I did here at Pennsylvania."

Lack of Reserves.
"All the colleges in the east this year are feeling the lack of strong reserves. No longer can you look over the shoulder of your big men and plenty of them. There are only 35 football players here and I can remember when almost a hundred turned out."

"Of all the eastern colleges only Yale seems to attract promising youngsters. Harvard doesn't seem to get them as consistently as formerly, no more Princeton either. It is a definite lack of which coaches are well aware and, in fact, discuss frequently among themselves."

Pennsylvania's hopes this season lie for the most part in eleven huskies capable of holding their own in almost any company. But there seems to be little left on the bench after the varsity takes the field.

Tough Schedule.
Facing a schedule that lines up Penn State, Navy, Chicago, Harvard, Columbia and Cornell for successive games, Pennsylvania has four fine backs and seven sturdy linemen. The rest is problematical. There are Paul Scull, the captain; Paul Murphy, John Shober and a sophomore who may be a sensation; Dick Gentle, for the backfield. All can run, kick, and pass above the ordinary and Shober is a sterling field general.

Tech Backs Look Good in Scrimmage

Jackets Get Taste of More Rough Work after Light Rest; Another Skirmish Booked Today.

BY HERBERT CLARK.
Georgia Tech's squad of Yellow Jackets settled down to hard work again Friday afternoon on the gridiron at Grant field and went through a stiff scrimmage with the entire staff of coaches looking on and raising their voices in caustic comment at intervals as needed. They were not disposed to be a bit charitable, as is fitting at this stage of the season, so their throats were rather stiff at the close of the session.

The kick-off problem was tackled at the outset of the practice, with Waddy doing the booting to a team lined up as per regulations who formed interference in the old wedge shape and returned the ball against the skeleton opposition. The squad showed much better form yesterday than in their previous engagement with this department of the amusement, for both the offensive and defensive angles. The kicking was of a high caliber and was well covered, while the squad detailed to get the ball back to the department of the amusement, for both the offensive and defensive angles. The kicking was of a high caliber and was well covered, while the squad detailed to get the ball back to the department of the amusement, for both the offensive and defensive angles.

Face Plenty Hard Work.
The issuing of headgear for rough stuff was Alex's next move. The Jackets are showing a perceptible daily improvement in these scraps, though much work is starting them in the face before they can hope to succeed. The varsity candidates will engage the freshman team in a 40-minute tussle which promises to furnish a great deal of excitement. More than 40 varsity men will see action, mostly on the offensive.

As for the frosh, they merely have the best looking Georgia Tech team in several years. With 85 husky candidates scrambling for places on the first team, Coach Gene Smith promises to turn out a remarkable eleven. Prep stars from all over the state are daily gambling around Sanford field with an eye on a possibility of making good on the varsity next year.

Plenty of Backs Out.
Georgia's "thousand halibuts" are to be made a perennial affair. Judging from more than 35 backfield candidates who are running for places on the frosh team, Patterson, of Savannah; Profumo, of Columbus; Gaston, of Rome, and many others have been showing up well in preliminary workouts for the present with a broken instep. Joe McTigue, end candidate, suffered an injury to his hand and several others are not in perfect shape just now.

Several varsity candidates are suffering from minor injuries at present but most of them will probably be able to engage in Saturday's scrimmage. Joint Captain Lautzenheiser is hobbling about with a sore heel, while Jackson, second string fullback, is out for the present with a broken instep. Joe McTigue, end candidate, suffered an injury to his hand and several others are not in perfect shape just now.

Of the linemen, Bob Parham, who has been returned to his rat position at end, carried the eyes of the multitude with him. The lanky boy handled himself with the perception of a veteran, spoiling many a play directed at his side. Peter Dunlap, fullback, general of the squad, stepped in the way of several enterprising ball-toters from his position at the center of the defensive line and won their raptures.

Frank Speer, the stumbling block which Bill Fincher tosses in the path of enemy ground-gainers, was indisposed yesterday but is expected to be on hand for Saturday's fuss, which, if the signs are not wrong, is to be a beauty.

last year's center, and two powerful guards in Walter Magai and Ralph Monk. John Smith, one tackle, just missed the all-American last fall and "Bull" Utz is almost as strong. Joe Olexy, fresh from the coal mines, and Bull Buck, a rangy giant, have first call on the ends.

But don't mention injuries and what might happen if these men are lost or the boogie man of Franklin field most certainly will get you.

Wells Slated To Go on Hill For Dobbsmen

Birmingham and Memphis Resume Series Today in Chicktown.

Memphis, September 21.—(AP)—Manager Prothro is depending on Harry Kelly, sturdy right-hander, to keep the Chickasaws in the running for the Southern association title when Memphis and Birmingham renew hostilities here tomorrow. The Barons are two up on the Chicks.

Ed Wells, who defeated Kelly in the first game of the playoff series, probably will pitch for Birmingham. If Dobbs decides not to use his ace, Ralph Judd more than likely will be given the assignment.

Prothro, who has been on the bench since the series was started with a charley horse, will not be in the game tomorrow, he said today after a practice session. Johnny Berger, Chick catcher, who worked in both Birmingham games in spite of the handicap of a carbuncle on his throwing arm, will be back in there tomorrow. Memphis fans are proud of the fact that even Stuffy Stewart, fleet-footed Baron, was unable to steal a base on Berger although he tried twice.

CUBBY BEAR'S DISAPPOINTMENT.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Sent not your heart on anything
Lest it but disappointment bring.
—Old Mother Nature.

close by watching. To tell the truth, Bobby was hoping that Whitefoot would jump out and try to run away. If he did Bobby Coone intended to have Whitefoot for himself.

Cubby Bear grunted and tugged and Cubby Bear had his mouth all made up for a fat Wood Mouse. Bobby Coon was going to show him where it was. Of course, that Wood Mouse was none other than Whitefoot. Bobby had almost caught him and Whitefoot had escaped by darting through a knothole into an old log. Bobby had tried to get him out and couldn't. Then Bobby had rolled the log over, so that the knothole was against the ground and Whitefoot was a prisoner. Now Bobby was going to show Cubby Bear that log. You see, Cubby Bear thought that with his stout claws he might be able to tear it open.

Bobby Coon led the way, shuffling along up from the Laughing Brook. Cubby Bear shuffled along behind him. Both of them walked flat-footed, which is something very few of the animals who live in the forest can do.

Cubby Bear shuffled along behind him.

"Where is this Mouse?" grumbled Cubby Bear, as he noticed the direction in which Bobby Coon was going.

"It's up near the sugar-house," replied Bobby Coon, "and I can't find nothing, but he looked a little uneasy. You see, the last time he was up there he had been badly frightened by his father, great old Grumpy Bear, and he was a little shy. Recently he reached the little clearing around the sugar-house. They stopped to make sure that the way was clear. Then Bobby Coon led the way to the place where the mouse lived. Whitefoot the Wood Mouse. It was a small log. Cubby Bear could pick it up easily. 'I don't see any mouse here,' he said. Bobby Coon was bitterly disappointed. 'Where is that Mouse?' he demanded. Bobby Coon looked puzzled. He backed off to a safe distance. 'I don't know,' said he. 'I left him there. He was a prisoner. You saw him. He was the mouse that was talking with that opening against the ground. That Mouse was in there when I left.' 'Then why wasn't he here now?' demanded Grumpy Bear. But that was something that Bobby Coon couldn't answer. He wished he could. Grumpy Bear happened to

"It's underneath," explained Bobby. "I rolled the log over." "All right, well roll it back," said Cubby Bear, and he did just that thing.

When the log was rolled over there was the little knothole. Cubby Bear sniffed at it. There was a fishy smell. "A mouse," he said, "is in there." "The fresh scent of a mouse in there. Certainly had been a Mouse in there. Cubby Bear wasted no time."

"What's that fellow out of there," he said.

He hooked his stout claws in the edge of the knothole. The wood was hard and somewhat decayed and the claws slipped. He pulled, and the wood pulled and he pulled. A splinter of wood gave way, making a crack. The scent of Mouse was stronger. "You can't get a mouse in there," said Bobby. He hooked his claw in the crack and tugged and pulled and ripped out another big splinter. Bobby Coon sat ground with his nose. It led straight away toward the little sugar house.

"You're mistaken," declared Cubby in disgust. "All he had to do was dig out. He just dug right out while you were down there fishing at the Laughing Brook. If you were not so old and tough, you'd take you in place of that mouse."

Bobby Coon backed away hurriedly. Then he grinned. "You mean if I were not quite so big," he said. "You don't know me."

"Don't!" cried Cubby, and made a rust toward Bobby. But Bobby had taken to his heels.

THE NIGHTMARE

By GERALD MYGATT

SYNOPSIS

Patricia Shane is being entertained in one of New York's night clubs by Fanning Edgar. She is annoyed by the insulting stare of a hawk-nosed man on the opposite side of the room. At the table with the Hawk are a blonde, coarse looking woman and a night porter who appears to be a young man. The head waiter calls young Edgar away from his table on a pretext, and as soon as he is gone the Hawk approaches Patricia and tries to engage her in conversation. He is interrupted by a good-looking young man who orders him back to his place. The newcomer introduces himself as Jimmy Kirkin. Patricia tells Kirkin that she thinks the hawk-nosed person had asked the head waiter to get rid of her escort. A fight ensues, and Fanning Edgar walks in on it.

INSTALLMENT VI

Max and the waiters and various other persons rushed up to him, all talking at once.

"Here Max," said Fanning conversationally, offering the $50 bill, "split this any way you like. These boys of yours are nice boys. What's the row about, anyway? I don't care what it's about. I don't like rows. Not does anyone know. Here," he waved his left arm vaguely to the group, "sit down, everybody, please. Hey," he blinked again, narrowing his vision, "what are you doing out here, Patricia?"

"She said: 'I want to tell Mr. Kirkin that I think he's a peach.'"

"Who's Mr. Kirkin?" Fanning asked.

"This is Mr. Kirkin," said the girl, and presented the two men. Mr. Kirkin then bowed and introduced his friend.

"And I want to tell Mr. Kirkin," said Patricia, with two points of pink flaming in her cheeks, "that I'd like him to call me up—if you want to, Mr. Kirkin—at the American Financing Syndicate. I'm a stenographer there."

"I'll call you tomorrow afternoon," said Jimmy Kirkin.

"That's slick," Patricia agreed. She was terribly excited and jumpy. The music crashed into life and a hare.

"Dance?" asked Fanning Edgar.

"No, Fanning, we're going straight home. Come on, please. Good night, Mr. Kirkin—and Mr. Edgar."

This last was addressed to Jimmy Kirkin's friend, the boy who had stood back to back with him. Either his name had been misheard or Patricia had been thinking of other things.

As they whisked away in Fanning Edgar's limousine, Patricia suddenly gripped her escort's arm.

"O, damn it," she said, "O, Fanning, I'll bet at my own wedding I'll step on my own feet or something."

"He asked: 'What's the matter?'"

"Matter?" she moaned. "He's going to call me up tomorrow afternoon and tomorrow Saturday, and it's not only Saturday but it's my vacation, and I'm taking the 12:18 for Spenshead."

"That's easy," said Fanning Edgar. "Don't take the 12:18, take the 4:50."

"But, Fanning, the door will be closed, closed shut. How can he get me?"

"Ask me another," said young Edgar with a yawn. "Say, that was a bum evening, wasn't it, Patricia? Next time we'll go somewhere else—hey? Say, now, what does that cop want?"

They were crossing Fifth avenue and a policeman strode toward them, blowing his whistle. Fanning's chauffeur stopped the car.

"Go ahead," said the policeman affably. "He's gone now. Ran back down the street. There was just a bum riding on your spare time, that's all. Funny looking little guy. Panama hat. Fell off when I blew the whistle and ran like he was half asleep."

Jimmy Kirkin stood stock still in the center of the dance floor and watched Patricia Shane walk out, followed closely by her now attentive shepherd, Fanning Edgar. That three or four score pairs of curious eyes were fastened upon him Jimmy was totally unaware. For that matter, he was oblivious of everything in the room except the single narrow doorway which served as its exit. He stared at it as if hypnotized.

"Snap out of it, Jim," commanded a voice at his shoulder. "Who do you think you are—Balboa discovering the Pacific?"

Young Kirkin seemed to shake himself. Then he wheeled slowly and grinned inanely at the boy who stood beside him.

"Isn't she a knockout?" he demanded.

"Yeh, pretty fair. Nice girl, all right, only I don't see where you got off to start what you started. Which reminds me! Speaking of knockouts—"

They turned together as at a sudden mutual recollection. The hawk-nosed man was once more sitting in his chair, glaring at the two of them but saying nothing. His protuberant black eyes seemed to burn into their very bodies.

"Friendly little fellow, isn't he?" said Jimmy with a half laugh. "Think I better go over and tap him again. Ted?"

"Not unless you want me to be a palbearer. That bozo means business, Jim. Haven't you any brains?"

"I thought I had but maybe they ain't workin' tonight. What happened to his gun, Ted?"

"Don't know. Somebody must have picked it up. I'll bet five bucks he's got it in his right hand this minute under the tablecloth."

Said young Kirkin: "I thought they didn't allow 'em to pack guns in this supposedly civilized burg. Seems to me I remember something about the Sullivan law—"

"Depends who you are, I guess," said Ted with a shrug.

"Let's go back to the table," Kirkin decided. "That gives him a good chance to plug me in the back if he feels like it—only something tells me he won't. Say, wasn't that dame at the table with him spittin' black fire, too? Sweet customers, those! Yeh, and wasn't there somebody else there with 'em—a little guy, sort of? What happened to him?"

"The other boy shrugged again and said: 'Darned if I know. Let's get our check and get out of here, Jim. We've seen all there is to see and as far as I'm concerned the party's been closed down. How about it?'"

"Ticked to death," Jimmy Kirkin agreed. And he was. For the racing thought came to him that if they hurried they might still find Patricia—that maybe she had stopped to wait for a taxi, or that maybe she had stopped to telephone, or that maybe . . .

"Check there," he called to the nearest waiter. "Hey, throw something to sparkle again. It might just be possible—it might just be possible—if they hurried."

Max himself brought the check. In fact, he had been hovering with it, for Max was exceedingly anxious to be rid of those two belligerent young men and their public howls. A bird might have all the necessary cops in the precinct sewed up—sure, and all the prohibition babies, too. That was swell. But just to try and throw somebody out of your joint and it turned out every time that he was a guy who knew a man who knew a man who knew the commissioner himself. And tomorrow afternoon you'd be looking for a new address. It was history that Max had been forced to move the location of The Gilded Lily a full seven months in the past 22 months and consequently he was growing a little conservative.

He presented the check, bowing obsequiously.

"I'm very sorry, gentlemen—very sorry. Next time you come you won't find it like this. What he meant was that next time they come they wouldn't get in, but this was not what he conveyed. 'Next time, gentlemen, I shall consider it a compliment if you will join me and my guests, in a bottle of Moet and Chandon.' What he meant by Moet and Chandon was what all Broadway now means by it—to wit: a fair grade of California white wine rather ineffectively carbonated but served, with tremendous formality, in a perfect countenance of that inspiring bottle which the M. Moet and M. Chandon made immortal. 'I am very sorry,' said Max. 'Some of our members here are not—'

He smiled and spread his palms, and that was that.

Somehow Jimmy got Ted to the door, to the street. But no Patricia was there.

"What's the hurry, anyway?" the boy named Ted demanded.

"None," said Jimmy Kirkin, and now all at once there wasn't any. The street of one-time fashionable brownstone houses was dark and strangely quiet. Except for a half-dozen waiting automobiles between them and the corner, it seemed entirely deserted. But not entirely, it appeared, for within ten feet of Jimmy a match flared and a man's face glowed into being. The man, who sat on the bottom step of the stoop next door to that of The Gilded Lily, was engaged in lighting a cigarette.

"Warm night, what seemed to be an almost insupportable difficulty he staggered to his feet.

"Steaded," Jimmy muttered to his companion. "Let's roll along before he gets friendly." But they were too late.

Read of This Experience of a 16-Year-Old Boy:

Not long ago, THE MOVIE TEST was conducted by the leading newspaper in a city not far from Atlanta. One of the winners was a 16-year-old boy, who, when interviewed about his success, was asked what he intended to do with $700 in prize money.

"I already gave half of it to Dad," he answered, and this is the way he told his story:

"I was pretty sure I had my first nine answers correct; and I had the money all ready to send in for a new subscription for our family.

"Well, sir, along comes that tenth cartoon and it just blows me up. I worked over it and studied it backwards, forwards, and sideways, and somehow I just couldn't seem to get anything out of it, at least, nothing that seemed right.

"I was sitting in the front room at the table, and Dad was in there, too, playing the radio.

"I give up," I finally said. 'This beats me.' So I left all the cartoons and everything on the table, got my hat and went down the street.

"When I got back that night, all my papers were gone. And this is what had happened—Dad figured out that tenth cartoon, and Dad sent in my other nine answers, along with his tenth, and it was Dad who put the five one-dollar bills in the envelope that paid for the subscription.

"Dad told me the next day that he had sent in the first 10 answers and the subscription, but I didn't have any idea his answer was right. Anyway, I sent in the other 20 answers just to see what luck I'd have.

"Well, sir, when they told me I had won a prize I nearly dropped dead. It was just too good to be true.

"I cashed my check right away, and went to Dad's store and put seven $50 bills—half of the $700—in his hands.

"And the next time any contest comes along you can bet your life I'm going into partnership with Dad."

... And now The Atlanta Constitution offers $8,000.00 in Prizes. At last a perfect contest that does not require genius --- only a good memory.
